

Chat to the Librarian

One of the best ways to find things out is to ask someone.

You could find out about the job of the librarian here by asking them a few questions. Remember, they may be busy with other work, so do ask politely if it is OK to talk to them for a few minutes. They may need to ask you to ask them another day if they are very busy.

Here are some ideas for questions you could ask, but we hope you will think of some of your own too.

What are the best parts of their job?

What are the most popular types of books in the library?

What are the least popular?

Who uses the library the most?

What are their favourite books now?

What were their favourite books when they were your age?

Now try to think of some questions of your own.
Remember to say thank you to them when you have finished.
