Walk instructions

From Bure Valley Railway Station, walk through the car park to start the walk at the Bure Valley Way sign. Follow the footpath beside the railway track to the road.

Go through the gate and turn right, walk beside the A140 for a few paces and turn right into Bure Valley Lane. Follow the road initially left, then bearing right to continue up Buxton Road.

follow the tarmac path winding its way through the trees adjacent to the road. Cross Ray Bond Way, Howard Way and turn right into Mileham Drive.

Turn almost immediately right again onto Marriott's Way. Follow Marriott's Way to the end, cross Norwich Road and return to the start.

- Why not use the steam train to take you to one of the stations and walk back along Bure Valley Way? For more information on the trains, contact 01263 733858 or look on the Bure Valley Way website: www.bvrw.co.uk

Bure Valley and Marriott's Way starter walks

Start with an easy one mile walk or extend it to two and a half miles using a tree lined footpath to Marriott's Way, an ideal introduction before tackling the more adventurous walks.

- The wild flowers, shrubs and brambles growing alongside the disused railways help provide an important habitat for common birds such as the humble house sparrow, unfortunately now in decline.
- The Bure Valley Railway was built on the track bed of the old Midland and Great Northern Railway which closed during the 1950's. It was locally known as the "Muddle and Go Nowhere" Railway. Broadland District Council acquired the Aylsham to Wroxham section in 1987 and converted half its width to create a nine mile walking and cycling route, The Bure Valley Way.
